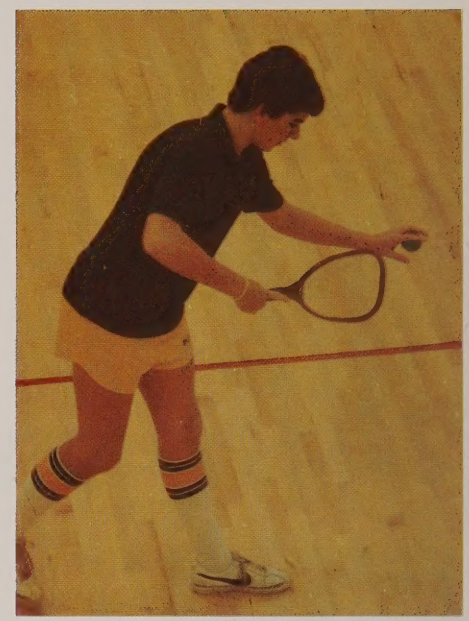
Students Tighten Up . . .



UMPH . . . those aching muscles again! It is the current trend in the United States to firm and shape muscles through sports. This also holds true for Barnstable students. Not only are students working out on Barnstable's teams, but also they are working out in sports not included in our school's athletic program. These activities can include a weekend game of touch football or a game of basketball. Still, some students prefer sports like weight lifting or karate that require both mental and physical stamina. One sport which has gained popularity during the past two summers is windsurfing. Hyannis even held a windsurfing competition this past summer. Girls ice hockey has also increased in popularity since the Cape Cod Aces won the United States championship last April.

Red Raider Spirit Shines Throughout School and Community

The ol' Red Raider spirit was noticeably downcast as senior year rolled around, but soon the many clubs and organizations of BHS came together to make 1981-82 the best year yet.

Visiting the elderly, promoting school spirit with "I Love BHS" buttons, solving future problems, working with the school administration and creating floats for Homecoming are just a sampling of the large variety of club activities. Included in this seemingly endless list of organizations are the Student Council and Student Advisory Board, National Honor Society, Future Problem Solving Team, Homecoming Committee, Prom Committee, Barnacle staff, Insight staff, Speech Team, Ski Club, Photography Club, Key Club, Code Club, Imani Club, A.F.S., Art Club, Band and the countless athletic teams.

These clubs enable the students to become involved in not only the affairs of the high school but also the goings-on throughout the Barnstable community. At the same time, they develop a sense of leadership, creativity, self-confidence, and personal initiative. Yet the most important feature of these organizations is the sense of unity which every member feels. This pulling together and "tightening up" of the students, faculty, and community are what makes these clubs so worthwhile.

Top: Judy Cody, Margot Wills, and Judy Ohrn, along with fellow Key Club members, spark up a festive mood at the Cape Cod Hospital during the Halloween season.
Right: First prize is just over the rainbow as Mary Lees, Sue Morse, and Lisa Marney prepare the preppy senior Homecoming float.

Student Life

Relishing both conversation and food, Susan James takes advantage of lunch time to eat, to relax and to chat.

Sue Vogler is pleased that the cafeteria and snack bar are open all day and that the school day is almost over.

Andy McKenna and Demetrius Atsalis use a free period to catch up on homework in the library.

Between classes, Martin Vazquez and Keith Rosary enjoy taking a break outside Room 617.

BHS Is All Talk

"Hey, did you hear what happened at that party last weekend?" This question and others like it are the ones most likely to be heard in conversations on Monday mornings. It's all part of socializing, Barnstable High's favorite pastime. Getting the latest scoop in the bathrooms or finding out what's going down for the next weekend in the Caf is the most important part of the day for some students.

Socializing has no special territories. It is done just about everywhere. Some prefer the hallways and classrooms, while others utilize the library and locker rooms.

Socializing is not limited to students alone. Many teachers partake of this craft. Mrs. Ladue and Ms. Vanhazinga can always be found in the hallway outside their classrooms before homeroom reviewing the latest. Mr. Thomas and Mr. Sundelin have been known to grant five minutes for social maturation during their class.

It is sure that when the students of the class of 1982 graduate and go their separate ways, the fine art of socializing will go with them.

Bottom Right: Seniors Karen Anderson, Jennifer Hallet, Lynne Depaola, and Cheryle Rogers talk about the past weekend on the benches in the hall.

Top: In the Caf, Jennifer Ellis tells Shelley Hall the topic of her next English paper.

Work: for Cash and Credit

Teenagers Work? Why?

College is a mere $8000 a year, gasoline is only $1.30 a gallon, and a movie is certainly a good buy at $4.00 a ticket.

Besides, work is fun! Being pleasant to the harassed mother with five kids hanging on to her or the fussy buyer who has to check everything twice or the customer who can't decide on anything can certainly try one's patience.

For some students, though, work is serious business. Many choose work study programs to supplement their school work. In return these students receive credit for their work during school hours.

But for both types of student workers, payday is a day to look forward to.

From Punk to Prep, BHSers Dress to Kill

When students roll out of bed each morning, what is their favorite type of clothing to throw on? Are they preps? into disco? or maybe even punk?

Much of the Class of 1982 comes to school in the classic Izod and jeans, but there are still many who prefer to dress in the new fashions and styles.

Typical preps can be spotted shopping in Lilly Pulitzer, The Talbot's, Mark, Fore and Strike, Puritan's and even the Lodge. Most likely they are looking through racks of cheenos, oxford buttondown shirts, turtlenecks, and brightly colored sweaters.

Cape Cod is mostly noted for preps, but punk is slowly moving in. To find accessories such as metallic belts and bags, students might be forced to go to Newbury Street, Boston, or one of the suburban malls. Punkers may be found buying clothing such as mini-skirts, pegleg pants, pointy pumps, as well as items such as orange and purple hairspray to complement razor-cut hairstyles. Heavily made-up faces complete the look.

Regardless of students' preferences for dress, there seems to be a general agreement that there is a style for everyone.

Students Diet . . .

Students are taking advantage of the salad bar in the cafeteria. Some students are seen eating yogurt or granola bars for lunch instead of fattening foods such as French fries, doughnuts, pizza, or frappes. With the high cost of food, many mothers simply are not buying junk food because of the strain on the household budget. Students, as well as adults, have become more aware of the importance of good nutrition.

Top Left: Seniors, girls, as well as guys, often travel to the nearby health spas to work out after school. Bottom Left: The new Salad and . . . in the Cape Cod Mall is just another "low-cal" food store to keep seniors in shape. The store offers not only different varieties of salads, but also different flavors of yogurt as well.

. . . and Exercise to Stay in Shape

Students are concerned with their appearance; therefore, they turn to dieting and exercising. Since gym is about the only means of exercise for students during the school day, many students participate in weight control and body-building programs, such as those offered at Dunfey's Sea Spa, the Hyannis Racquetball Club, and Gloria Stevens. Students also turn to these centers as a means to be excused from gym but still receive gym credit.

Culture Enriches Student Life

Various opportunities to pursue art, music, dance, literature, and drama are available through the high school and outside organizations. Exposure to and appreciation of these subjects pull into a well-rounded package all facets of student life.

Students who enjoy art can explore its every aspect in the school art department. Subjects touched upon range from watercolor to pottery, from string art to oil painting and sculpture.

Music lessons are equally available. During and after school Barnstable offers such diverse musical options as Chorus, Marching Band, Chorale, Orchestra, Jazz Ensemble, and Stage Band. In addition, most music students take individual lessons either here or at an outside establishment, such as the Cape Cod Conservatory.

Dance schools are frequented by students interested in both classic ballet and modern dance, not to mention the wide spectrum of variations between the two. Expressive and personal, dancing smoothly tones the body and lends fluidity and grace to the student's everyday life.

Drama is one of the most popular pastimes at BHS. Beginning in English and literature classes, students learn to portray the characters of Shakespeare and other classic playwrights. Those bitten by the acting bug can audition for a part in one of the school productions. Proven thespians may go on to take part in a play at the Barnstable Comedy Club, which attracts acting talents from the community as well as the high school.

For those who don't find interest in these activities, there's always literature. It may be Shakespeare, Stephen King, Lord Byron, Flowers in the Attic, Dickens, Woody Allen, Seventeen, Insight, or Popular Mechanics; the printed word, like culture itself, has something for everyone.

That's Entertainment

Entertainment is an important part of high school students' lives. All week they do homework and study for tests. When Friday comes, the whole school perks up. Weekends are for relaxing and enjoying oneself. Most students go to the movies, watch t.v., drive around with friends, or just listen to the radio. Popular musical groups for 1981-1982 are "Foreigner", "Journey", "Pat Benatar", "Fleetwood Mac", "A.C/D.C.", "Rolling Stones", "Rick Springfield", and "J. Geils".

Proposition 2½ may have made money tight but students are doing their best to enjoy their leisure time during their senior year.

Top Right: "Raiders of the Lost Ark" was a popular movie in the summer of 1981.
Bottom: Class of 1982 students turn to pinball machines as a way of passing the time.

Chris Hallett, Greg MacDougall and Ted Gelinas talk between classes, perhaps discussing a recent football game on T.V.
The Cape Cod Mall is a popular place to see movies not shown at Airport Cinemas.
The Musicsmith stocks the full gamut of popular music: top 40 hits, heavy metal, disco, punk.

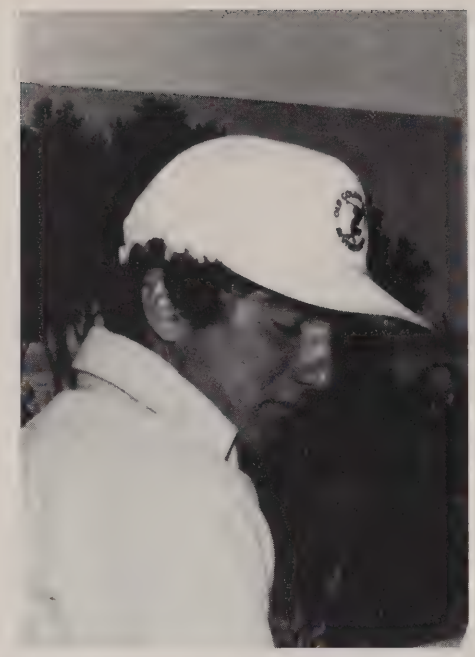
Lights, Camera, Action . . .

Many students go to the movies on weekends. They go to get out of the house, meet friends, and see a good show at the same time. Some current box office hits are "Raiders of the Lost Ark," "Endless Love," "Arthur," "Stripes," "Friday the 13th," and "The French Lieutenant's Woman."

Television is a popular pastime, especially when students are tired of doing homework, listening to the radio, or short on money. Girls and guys are known to rush home after school to be in time to catch the latest episode of their favorite soap opera: "General Hospital." Keeping track of Luke and Laura can be a difficult task. Other popular television programs are adult soaps such as "Flamingo Road," "Dynasty," "Dallas"; action shows such as "Dukes of Hazzard," "Magnum P.I.," and "The Greatest American Hero"; and comedies such as "Taxi" and "Mork and Mindy."

During the weekend, seniors let the good times roll!

Whether it's socializing at a party or just munching out at McDonald's, the Class of '82 manages to enjoy themselves. Finances may be low, but that hasn't stopped the students from going out on the weekends and living it up. Friday night, Saturday, and Sunday are the only days of the week when students are able to forget about school for a few hours and focus on having a good time with friends.



Top: At an early September party, Joe Salvaggio rests his eyes before starting off the new school year.
Right: Due to this sign, seniors must find somewhere else to go after 9 p.m.
Bottom: Paul McCartin and Darryl Lahey enjoy breakfast the first day of school.

Right: Covell's is the beach where most students meet before heading to the parties.
Bottom: McD's is the seniors' favorite place to eat when they get the munchies.

In September, 1978, a loosely organized freshman class entered Barnstable High School. Four years later, the same students, known as the Class of 1982, have become a closely knit unit. As a group, they have set an example for and have led the students in spirit and in performance. As individuals, they have developed and refined their talents and abilities. Some of this year's seniors are recognized for their scholastic achievement; others have won awards in science, writing, art, speech, and music; and other seniors have distinguished themselves as athletes.

This year's senior class includes seven National Merit Scholarship Letter of Commendation winners, over 20 all-star athletes, Miss Teenage Massachusetts, two all-state musicians, five gold key winners in the Scholastic Art Competition, as well as numerous scholarship and award winners.

The students of the Class of 1982 have many reasons to be proud of themselves.

I'm not crazy, I'm a unique standout personality in a crowd of otherwise dull and boring people. Abe Lincoln was once insulted by a man who said, "I used to have a beard like yours, but when I realized how it made me look I cut if off." Abe said, "To tell the truth, I used to have a face like yours, but when I realized I couldn't cut it off I grew this beard." Tennis 1, 2, 3, 4; Cross Country 1, 2; Winter Track 1, 2. My favorite saying is What's up man. My nickname is Steph and I like to be called so because it is the closest thing to my name. My Friends in school are Lihn Phu and her sister Quyen, Glennys, and there are lots more which I can't write. I am in a club after school, I go skating on weekends plus in the winter I go ice skating too. After I finish school I plan to go to a typing school, for a year or two if I make a good amount.

Nine years ago a group of students and parents approached the Barnstable school administration with an idea for an alternative school. Working together, they created what is now known as the Alternate Learning Program.

The A.L.P. is a school within a school. Although the A.L.P. utilizes a variety of teaching methods and has a different schedule from that of BHS, its goal is just the same as any secondary school: to prepare a student for his life outside of school, whether that life is as a college student or as a member of the community.

Alternate Learning Program

The student-to-teacher ratio of the A.L.P. is 20 to 1. This is beneficial because help is readily available from a teacher whose schedule allows him the time to tutor anyone who needs the assistance. The small student-to-teacher ratio also helps teachers. A teacher can view firsthand how the student interacts with others in small group settings as well as how the students perform in class. This is important in evaluating a student's strong points as well as weak points when grading time arrives and when writing college recommendations. The graduating class of the A.L.P. is especially small this year, affording the seniors an opportunity to develop close friendships with almost all the graduates.

Varied Schedule and Graduation Requirements

The A.L.P. is run on a three day-two day schedule. On Monday, Wednesday, and Friday four 75-minute classes meet; on Tuesdays and Thursdays four 75-minute elective classes meet, making the A.L.P. schedule similar to that of college. This program proves to be more effective for the A.L.P. than the regular high school schedule because it allows teachers and students more uninterrupted time in the class, as well as ample time between class meetings for homework and preparation.

One aspect of the A.L.P. which is significantly different from BHS is its academic requirements. In order to graduate from the Alternate Learning Program, a student must pass a year of foreign language; one year of psychology or sociology; three years of math; two years of science; Senior Seminar and a senior project such as building a house, biking long distances, or preparing the A.L.P. section of the yearbook. These are all in addition to the graduation requirements of Barnstable High School.

Guest Lecturers, Apprenticeships, Provide Variety

The Alternate Learning Program taps and employs resources not only at the high school but also in the community. One method of teaching more widely seen in the ALP than in BHS is the use of guest lecturers. Guests this year have included a K-9 patrol from the Barnstable Police Department, a spokesman from the Pilgrim I nuclear power plant, a martial arts instructor, and a certified hypnotist.

In addition, community members sometimes volunteer to teach a class. This year Don Brichta, a reporter for the Cape Cod Times was a journalism instructor; Roseli Weiss, director of Barnstable's gifted and talented program taught a class in creative Problem Solving and Bill Bird taught modern poetry.

Some ALP students go out into the community to work as apprentices. Businesses such as WQRC, the Animal Rescue League, Cotton Pickin T's and legal offices have given ALP students an opportunity to learn and to work at the same time.

Field Trips Important to ALP Program

Field trips are an integral part of the education which ALP students receive. Although students go on field trips voluntarily, most ALP students elect to go on at least one field trip every year.

The opportunities to spend time enriching onself physically, culturally, and mentally are only part of the benefits which field trips provide. Students also spend time getting to know one another and the world outside of the classroom and the Cape Cod environment.

The length and distance of field trips vary. An overnight camping excursion to Nickerson State Park in Brewster and a four-day trip to New York City are only two of the variety of field trips taken this year. In addition, a visit to the JFK Library on Columbia Point in Boston and a hiking trip in New Hampshire were also part of the ALP schedule of trips.

From the time a student enters BHS as a freshman, he admires and envies the seniors, anticipating his senior year and all its activities.

For many students, the senior year unofficially begins with the Junior Prom, the first of many events which fill the next 12 months. Usually late in May or early June, the Junior Prom signifies the imminent departure of the preceding senior class which traditionally graduates the first Sunday in June, leaving the junior class to assume the leadership of and to set the example for the underclassmen. Once September of the senior year arrives, activities come in rapid succession: Homecoming in autumn, the traditional Thanksgiving Day football game with archrival Falmouth, PowderPuff Football, and the annual Junior Miss Pageant in December. Voting for senior superlatives occurs in winter, and the senior homeroom representatives then begin to prepare for the final rush of events; following final exams in late May, the Senior Prom, the senior picnic, and graduation joyously conclude four years at BHS.

"Celebrate" to Eternity

The actual planning for the 1981 Junior Prom started about three months in advance. A committee led by Hank and Kelli Murphy was formed and put to work. The final result: one of the classiest proms that Barnstable High School has ever seen.

About this same time the Juniors began to buzz with what is commonly known as "Prom Fever": a mad rush to find a date, buy dresses, and rent tuxes.

When the big day finally arrived, most of the juniors started it with the SAT's. Thus, most had only about four hours to prepare. Some prepared by themselves, and others had mothers, sisters, or hairdressers to aid, but by 5:00 PM, the evening had begun.

There was a variety of "pre-Prom" activities. Between 15 and 20 couples met a Michelle Antil's house for a small get-together. Others met down at the beaches to talk over the coming event and set the mood for the evening.

The Tivoli Room at Dunfey's Hyannis Hotel has never looked as good as it did Saturday night, May 2nd. As the couples began to arrive, dressed to "celebrate" the Junior Prom, the committee knew that its hard work was going to pay off.

But, as Murphy's Law states, Whatever can go wrong will, and one minor detail went wrong to delay the start of dinner. An excess of smoke in the kitchen triggered the smoke alarm and within ten minutes, firemen swarmed the lobby, axes in hand.

When it was established that nothing serious was wrong, the Prom continued with everyone dancing, clapping, and singing to the sounds of the band. Dances such as the "worm" and the "train" kept the excitement going.

The highlight of the evening was the traditional promenade; the couples lined up and strolled around the room past the head table where the judges selected Lisa Gregory as the Queen of the Prom, with Susan Stacy, Margot Wills, Tuckie Blanchard, and Elaine Langley in her court.

The night grew old and the couples began to drift away to various get-togethers after the Prom. After the vases which decorated the tables were taken home as momentos by the girls, and the balloons so painstakingly inflated by the committee had all been popped, the 1981 Junior Prom was over, but the chatter and planning had already begun for the 1982 Senior Prom.

Our pride is showing

Endless hours were spent preparing for Homecoming. As the Raiders practiced to get the team in shape for the game against Somerset, each class worked on its float for the upcoming parade, striving for the first place award.

The Best Float Award was given to the Class of 1982. The theme of the float was "Seniors are Prep-pared for the Future": the preppy look and, of course, an alligator were accented by a colorful rainbow.

The junior class was represented by a Halloween float. The sophomores' theme was "The Sophomores are Popular" and the freshmen's was "The Class of '85 Has Punch." The Drama Club was represented by its third annual haunted house entry.

Senior Janine Giovannone, junior Pam Powers, sophomore Liz Fields, and freshman Jennifer Horan were chosen homecoming queens of their respective classes. Mr. James Murphy, president of the Quarterback Club, and Mr. John McBarron, vice-president, presented each queen with a necklace and roses. They presented Sean Smith, homecoming king, with a gift certificate to Musicsmith.

The parade of floats and the festivities were successful, but unfortunately the football team went down in defeat to Somerset.

Slammers Shut Out 83rd Brigade!

For weeks junior and senior girls practiced passes, kicks, and tackling, preparing for the final battle. Junior coaches Mike Gardner, and Beaver Gordon started to prepare their team a week and a half before the senior girls. The senior coaches Darryl Lahey, Kevin MacDonald, and Ronny Mendes worked their team twice as hard to make up for the time lapse. As the day grew near, bets were placed on which team would win. The faculty had picked the Junior 83rd Brigade, saying they were more agile than the more husky Senior Slammers. The Senior Psychos and Junior Gigolos practiced cheering routines to see who would win the first place cheering award.

November 2, 1981, the day of the battle, dawned cold, grey, and wet. The teams arrived at the school field two hours before kick-off time, each going over last minute plays. As spectators began arriving the excitement grew, each team believing it would win. The Junior Gigolos and Senior Psychos made their unusual entrances bringing cheers from the crowd.

At exactly one o'clock the battle began. When the first touchdown was scored, and the second, and third, the fans, teams, coaches, and cheerleaders knew who was going to win.

The Senior Slammers surprised everyone by winning 20-0, and they thanked Darryl, Kevin, and Ronny for putting up with them and wished good luck to the 83rd Brigade next year.

Junior Miss rewards all

The Junior Miss Program is a nationwide scholarship program for senior girls. Its aim is to reward those who excel in personality, poise, and promise. The Junior Miss Program is not a beauty contest; girls are judged on articulation, clarity of expression, ability to organize thoughts, scholastic achievement, physical fitness, creative and performing arts, and poise and appearance.

"Barnstable's Key Club remains the only Key Club in the nation to sponsor a Junior Miss Program. Key Club members work backstage, sell ads for the program, organize the judges' interviews, act as ushers, and sell tickets and refreshments at the Program," comments Judy Clancy, Key Club President.

Junior Miss is a great opportunity for the girls to get to know other girls in their graduating class with whom they do not usually associate. This is why Junior Miss is such a rewarding experience; when it's all over, the girls know it wasn't just the winners who won; each girl has been enriched by her participation.

Superlatives — a High School tradition

In many yearbooks it is a tradition to have what are known as superlatives. These are categories about looks and actions which the Senior Class votes on late in November, in order to determine who best fits the role.

They are as entertaining at present as they will be in the future. Lee Hicks and Cathy O'Neil — will they really succeed? And what of Peter Alymer and Margaret O'Brien? Will they still be partying years from now? Everyone knows that Jeanine Scace and Keith Nightingale dress well now, but in a few years, who's to say?

The answers to these questions and numerous others like them will be entertaining and amusing in the years to come.

HR Reps show leadership

From each homeroom there is chosen one representative and one alternate. Every Friday, during homeroom period, they meet in the auditorium to discuss issues from class dues to graduation.

Through all four years the homeroom reps have been instrumental in many class activities. Freshman and sophomore years they raised funds by bake sales, car washes, and dances. At the beginning of the junior year, the Class of 1982 had a bank account which exceeded that of the other three classes.

During their junior year, much began to happen. One of the major projects was the Junior Prom. The Reps formed committees and finally produced a very successful prom.

Starting into their senior year, they had still more to accomplish: The Class Trip, Homecoming, The Senior Prom, The Class Picnic, and finally Graduation. The Reps have dealt with these and others with organization and have made their senior year one to be remembered.

Geometry proofs, calculus problems, dissections, lab reports, research papers, short stories, Shakespearean tragedy, historical dates, ancient civilizations, phys. ed, verb conjugations, listening comprehension, and final exams are all part of a four-year process to obtain a high school diploma. BHS students can also opt for classes such as pottery, music theory, CPR, computer programming, and newspaper production to enrich themselves or to acquire new skills.

From 8:00 am to 2:06 pm in seven class periods a day, over 130 faculty members attempt to fulfill the philosophy of Barnstable High School: "to make learning an active, satisfying, cooperative pursuit of excellence." Despite the devastating effects that Proposition 2½ has had on some Massachusetts communities, Barnstable has managed to tighten up its school budget, while still maintaining its high standards of education and services for its students.

Every ten years, BHS is evaluated by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges for its strengths and weaknesses in academics, administration, activities, and facilities. This year the entire school is undergoing a self-study in preparation for its review. Faculty members, parents, and students have been part of committees which are making an honest assessment of the courses and programs offered at BHS.

Faculty and Academics

Eric Rosengren asks Mr. Dudley about his lab work.
With a smile, Mr. Heslinga explains one of the finer points of biology.
Loaded down with books, Michelle Audino is prepared for the tests (which always seem to be scheduled for Fridays).

Administration

Three principals form the central administration of BHS, with Dr. Wannie supervising the work of the assistant principals who are in charge of discipline and activities and curriculum. Working under Mr. Graves are the deans and club advisers; coming under Mr. Goldman's jurisdiction are the 12 department heads. Teachers work with both assistant principals and Dr. Wannie to assure that BHS students receive the best education available.

and Guidance

The Barnstable High School Guidance Department's primary function is to provide personal, academic and career counseling for all students. Six guidance counselors and a special needs counselor serve the entire school population and meet with students, parents, teachers, deans and other professionals to help students prepare for graduation or to assist them in any way.

Historical and Cultural Study Are Encouraged

In order to graduate, each BHS student is required to take two full credits in social studies. In addition to taking the mandatory US history course, students are free to choose from a wide variety of other social studies courses. Introduction to Life, limited to seniors, offers students practical information about real-life topics and situations. Social Values and psychology study human behavior and personality, while Afro-American history studies the experience of Black Americans prior to the slave trade to present. If a student prefers, he can study economics, ancient history, sociology, or American government to fulfill and exceed his graduation requirements in social studies.

Literary Study and Composition Are Emphasized

Because each student is required to take four years of English, the BHS English department is the largest in the school. Freshmen and sophomores are required to take English I and II respectively, but English electives are offered to all juniors and seniors who can choose such courses as American literature, Shakespeare, broadcasting, science fiction, research paper writing or vocabulary building to fulfill the graduation requirement of four English credits.

The budgetary restraints of Proposition 2½ have necessitated a reduction of course offerings and a consolidation of some classes. However, the department faculty has managed to purchase several new texts for use in writing and literature courses and continues to stress vocabulary and writing development in addition to literary study for all students.

Total Range of Math Topics Available

Offering the full range of math classes from basic math to calculus, the department provides not only remedial help for those students who desire it but also more advanced classes for those students who want to pursue math and science careers.

In addition to the computer programming course offered by the business department, the math department also has a computer course which teaches two programming languages — FOCAL and BASIC. Also available are a business math course and two statistics courses to complement the traditional mathematics offerings of algebra, geometry, trigonometry, and calculus.

All Courses — Lab Courses

All BHS science courses include laboratory work, in small groups or by individuals. Biology, chemistry, and physics are only part of the science offerings. Environmental earth science, ecology/geology, and electronics courses are also available for students to take. Independent study can also be taken for credit and the topic and goals of study are limited only by materials and time.

Business courses gain popularity

The demand by local industry for BHS students to work part-time exceeds the supply by a wide margin, even though 1077 students elected at least one course within the business department this year. Typewriting, accounting, and computer programming are the most popular courses in the department, having 450, 350, and 80 students in each respectively. Electronic and memory typewriters, for example, have been bought by the school to provide the business students with the most advanced equipment. The IBM/34 computer is the newest business equipment. It allows the department to remain competitive in job employment and the continuing education markets.

Foreign Language classes prepare students for college

Geography, history, and culture — as part of a language class? At BHS, they are, for foreign language classes study not only Latin, Spanish, French, and German, but also the historical, geographical, and cultural backgrounds of Rome, Spain, France, and Germany.

Enrollment has increased gradually over the past few years, possibly due to the fact that at least two years of a foreign language is required for most colleges. Latin's enrollment has increased the greatest, having ten classes this year.

The department's aim is to prepare those students in the basic languages so they will be of use in traveling, and in preparing those students who wish to study foreign language in college.

BHS is all art

Despite no new additions in the Art Department curriculum, more and more students are taking art courses. The Art Department was not affected by proposition 2½ and will be receiving the same budget as the previous year. Mr. Sullivan adds, "Last year's money does not equal this year's money, so in fact we will have basically less to work with." Ceramic classes have been enrolling many students and so have Mr. Sullivan's Arts and Crafts classes. Mr. Sullivan seemed enthusiastic when he said, "The Art Department will be bigger and better next year."

Music Dept. offers medley of groups

Marching band, chorus, chorale, stage band, concert band, string ensemble, and orchestra are only part of the offerings of the music department faculty. Music theory plus private music lessons (both voice and instrumental) are also taught, and plans are now being made to offer Music Theory II and Beginning Music Reading next year.

The Music Department has a new member this year who is replacing Mr. Berberian who is on leave. Mr. Swanson teaches music theory and directs the choral groups. Mrs. Lajoie gives string instruction on a part-time basis, and the entire department's efforts can be seen and heard several times each year in concerts. In addition to the Festival of Pride this year, the string ensemble, the chorus, the orchestra, and the concert band all performed in a pops concert.

Shop students receive occupational training

Through the Industrial Arts Department, students can learn the basics of woodworking, metalworking, plastics, technical drawing, electricity, and electronics. With the aid of all available tools and facilities, these students design and develop their own projects.

From a background of somewhat simpler projects in the middle school shop, industrial arts students become familiar with more sophisticated equipment, as well as free choice of projects.

The department is designed to fit the needs of every student, whether he wishes to go on to technical school, study engineering in college, or just obtain a background in technical work.

Students learn all aspects of independent life

The Personal and Family Living Department teaches highly useful skills of life to its students. Courses cover every aspect of life, including marriage, foods, interior decorating, sewing, child development, relationships, responsibility, consumerism, and housing.

A new course this year is Creative Living. It deals equally with relationships, food, clothing, and money management and housing, stressing the creative points of each. Courses which help students deal with leaving home are Independent Living and Marriage and Family Life. Both classes emphasize understanding relationships, communication, money management, health, legal rights, and housing.

The child development area of the department includes a pre-school open to the community. This situation develops skills in teaching children, as well as in child guidance, nutrition, health care, and social problems.

P.E. Dept. Offers Variety of Electives

Barnstable High School is fortunate enough to have one of the most extensive physical education departments in Massachusetts. Not only do we have a large variety of athletic electives, but also our curriculum also includes special programs such as Gym major, S.T.E.P. and C.P.R.

Gym major is a class, held five days a week, offered to seniors who are interested in pursuing a career in some field of physical education training.

The STEP program, which stands for "Special Teenage Problems," is a class to help teenagers either cope with or rid of their problems. The students discuss these problems and also attend an exercise class.

CPR is another elective offered to the students. This class teaches the student basic rescue maneuvers and offers the student a chance to be certified.

Due to the fact that Barnstable has such a varied curriculum, students are able to get much more out of their physical education class than at most other schools.

Special Ed. Mainstreams Its Students

The Special Education department at Barnstable, consisting of about 125 students and 9 teachers, is an essential part of the school. There are four main groups of students in the department — the learning disabled, the low incident level, those with behavioral problems and the slow learners. Each group is taught by certain teachers who specialize in that particular area of special needs. All the teachers involved in the department have a master's degree, although most have a master's degree plus thirty hours. The classes in the special ed. department include one-third academics, one third pre-vocational and daily living, and one-third of skills of all kinds.

BHS' health: Nurses' job

No matter when a person passes the nurse's office, it always seems to be a very busy place. The school nurses' job includes aiding the sick and injured, working with the teachers, coaches, and counselors on matters of student health, checking immunizations, scheduling, and giving vision and hearing tests, and arranging physicals all to keep the school population healthy.

Books and service available in BHS library

Although the library is often used by students to socialize, most students recognize and utilize the wide variety of resources the library has. Whether aiding students in locating the appropiate reference tools for research or teaching students how to use the card catalogue, and the microfiche equipment or reminding students about overdue books, Mr. Geary and the library staff are an important part of the school's faculty. The library contains around 17,000 volumes, 100 different periodical subscriptions, and numerous reference books for students to prepare research papers, speeches, and reports or for informational and pleasurable reading.

Media service is A-V job

Barnstable Public School's audio-visual department is located at BHS. Consequently much time and effort is given to Barnstable High School's needs. The A-V department provides a variety of services: delivering video machines to classrooms; making and recording video types, cassettes, slides, and other audio-visual aids for educational and training purposes; maintaining and repairing equipment; offering assistance to both students and teachers in and out of classrooms.

Cafeteria Personnel Dedicated To The Job

Barnstable's cafeteria workers provide a necessary service to the school. Even so, many people never give a thought to all the hard work that goes into preparing lunch every day. After all, what would students do without someone to microwave their steak and cheese sandwiches? Who would sell them French fries in their free periods? Who would remind them that there's a rule against cutting into the lunch line? Though they often go unthanked, the cafeteria personnel are indeed dedicated to their jobs.

Top: Due to the higher lunch prices caused by Proposition 2½, many students started "brown bagging it" this year.

Secretaries and Custodians Are Unsung Heroes

Although their faces are familiar, the names of the custodians and secretaries probably aren't. Similarly, many students who don't come in direct contact with these people don't realize the value of the services they provide. Most students have gone to their guidance counselor at one time or another, but did they ever think about who handles all the paperwork? And who keeps the constantly growing number of absences, tardies and dismissals straight? Who answers the phones and delivers messages to teachers and students? Does the school clean itself at the end of the day? No. It's the custodians and secretaries who provide all of these services as well as others too numerous to list.

Each day at 2:06 pm, hundreds of BHS students head to the locker-rooms, gyms, and playing fields to participate on some of almost 20 athletic teams. Starting in August and finishing in June, the three athletic seasons provide coaching jobs for teachers and citizens, thrilling entertainment for fans, and exhilarating physical activity for students.

Although win-loss records are significant, most coaches, fans, and athletes agree that competitive sports are important for other reasons: the developing of good sportsmanship, the acquiring of new athletic skills, and the improving of individual abilities. These are developed during the countless hours of practice as well as during the league and non-league games and meets of each season.

1981 Baseball: SMC-I Champs!

For the second consecutive year, Barnstable has walked away with the SMC-I title. For Rolly Hicks, it was a good ending to his fourteen years of coaching baseball. Said Mr. Hicks, "I'll miss the game, but most of all, I'll miss the association and the friendships that I've built up with the players over the years. They are the young men that make it all worth it."

Dean Boger, the new varsity baseball coach, hopes to keep up the winning tradition. With returning seniors such as Scott Nickerson, Andy Stewart, Steve Pacheco, Andy McKenna, and Tony Densmore, a winning season and another SMC-I championship in 1982 is within the Raiders' reach.

Softball team takes championship

The 1980-81 softball season finished with another S.M.C. Division I East Championship. The team's record was 11-1 in the league and 12-2 overall.

Said Coach Pat Griffin, "The team's loyalty, dedication, and spirit, in conjunction with great talent, carried us through a very enjoyable and successful season."

Golf Team Shoots Par in 1981 Season

The golf team's 1981 season was "pretty good, but not excellent" according to one of the players. Coach Mr. Manning attributed their 6-9 record to the fact that they were a young team. Also, he felt that since they had been State Champions the year before, there was a tendency to take a possible win for granted and not try hard enough. However, many of the matches they lost were close, and Mr. Manning believes they were a good team. With almost every player returning for the 1982 season, he feels they should come back and maintain their record of winning the State Championship six out of the past ten years.

Boys' Tennis Team Makes It to Southern Division Finals of State Tournament.

The 1981 Boys' Tennis team had a very successful season as they compiled a record of 14-1, thus qualifying them to tie as the league champions. The team made it all the way to the finals in the state tournament only to lose to Duxbury by a 2-3 margin. Coach Brock said that the team has a good chance to make it to the state tournament again but it will be much more work, seeing that the two top players graduated last year. Eric Prothero, last year's number one player, was always a sure win, which helped the team out quite a bit. The team's number two player, Peter Karolczak, will also be missed.

In the 1982 season the team will consist of three seniors who have played for Barnstable in previous years. These three seniors are Dave Madden, Greg Himstead, and Neil McAuliffe. David played his first year of varsity tennis last year and played well enough to be on the #1 doubles team. Coach Brock considers Dave and his partner to be the best team in the league. Neil McAuliffe is a very competitive #3 singles player but also plays doubles when he has to. Greg Himstead also plays #3 singles and is sometimes used on the doubles team.

Although the team lost two exceptional players, they hope to head for the state championships again.

Team tied for third in league

The 1981 girls' tennis team was evenly balanced by wins and losses during their spring season. Coach Wayne Miles says, "The 1981 team finished with a 7 won, 7 lost record, tied for third place in the league. The team was led by a 4-year starter Kathy Eckert, who was a consistent winner at the No. 1 position. Senior Pat Cote owned the No. 2 spot, where she had trouble winning after many close matches, but Pat showed leadership and inspiration as she worked hard on every point each match and never missed a practice. Senior Cindy Gossage played at the No. 3 singles spot and seemed to win big or lose the same way. The doubles strength was provided by Tucker Blanchard, senior Ellen O'Rourke, and Junior Margot Wills alternating at the No. 1 position and coming up with some big wins, with the Riley twins, Martha and Margaret, most often representing second doubles. In terms of winning matches, this season wasn't the most successful, but the unity, spirit, and closeness of the team was evident throughout and was further illustrated with a highly enjoyable breakup dinner arranged by the team members with nearly everyone in attendance."

The girls on the team all had the same feelings about their team spirit and enthusiasm during the year. Team member, Lori Swain said, "I feel the season was successful — success is not just what is seen in the win and loss column. The girls worked well together and were willing to play anywhere Mr. Miles felt we were needed." Also Christine Nelson had this comment: "The girls on the team were very close this year, and we all worked together to help get each other ready for our matches." Another active team participant, Anthea MacNown, speaks for many of us when she says, "We've become good friends and have had many fun times together over the years while working as a team to achieve success. Thank you for all your advice and encouragement, Mr. Miles."

Individual performances result in a successful season

Lisa Goveia's record breaking discus throwing, Andrea Garrity's incredible high jumping and broad jumping, Cristina Rodriguez's, Beth Murphy's, and Brenda Burke's awesome javelin throwing plus many other individual performances all added up to a very successful 1981 girls' spring track team.

Although this year's final record was 5 and 4, the team on the whole was one of the best Mrs. Ericson had coached. The competition was stiff, but the girls held their own. Coach Ericson stated, "Our field events were outstanding and our distance runners steadily improved. We had an excellent group of hurdlers, including Cristina Rodriguez and Kathie Eagar. The only place we lacked depth in was the sprints."

When asked to comment further Mrs. Ericson said that the team coaches placed great emphasis on personal bests and goals in this highly individual sport. Each girl did the best she could do in her particular event, and the whole team benefited from her efforts. As one girl improved, the others were there with congratulations and encouragement. One girl's success was the success of the entire team.

Mrs. Ericson, a biology teacher, was the last female track coach in the league. She had been the coach for the past four years, but the 1981 season was her last. Planning to continue her education at graduate school and to do some behavioral studies of whales, she left her position with mixed feelings. Commented Mrs. Ericson, "Every year I felt I had the best team yet; every year they improved." but the time factor involved was tremendous. The practices and meets were time consuming, and the amount of paper work connected with coaching was surprisingly large.

When asked to comment, Assistant Coach Labouliere stated, "We'll really miss Mrs. E next year and we wish her the best of luck always." Mr. Labouliere feels that next year the team will be even better than in 1981, and he hopes for significant improvements in the areas in which there were weaknesses.

Meeting individual goals made a winning team

The key to the success of the team was how well each individual met his goals. This is how Coach McDowell summed up the 1981 boys' spring track team. The competition was big and consisted of many good teams, yet Barnstable held its own.

The team included lots of key seniors and also many excellent underclassmen. Kevin Farley and Dave Roberts were the leaders in the mile and the two mile. John Moreland, Scott Steeves, Eric Steeves, and Mark Kinney were all outstanding hurdlers. Joe Natale, a very versatile member of the team, ranked as one of the top pole vaulters in the league. A very strong relay team consisted of Mark Rathbun, Kenny Ellis, Tom Pingree, and Joe Natale. Throwing the javelin were Mike DeBenedictis and Scott Steeves, who progressed rapidly throughout the season. Pat Ryan headed the team in the shot-put, and Billy Concha, Eric Thys, Eric Steeves, and J. P. Moreland led the jumping events.

Coach McDowell claimed that most of these boys trained hard all year long and were also members of the cross country and winter track teams. Keeping in shape during the off-season was considered essential for success.

Although next year's team will be without many important seniors, Coach McDowell feels confident. "When you lose the seniors, you must develop the younger boys to maintain competitiveness and an all-round good team."

X-Country finishes 5th of 30 schools at state meet

Although winning only two of the five dual meets, the cross country team had a very successful season. Finishing fifth in all three most competitive meets, the Catholic Memorial Invitational, Northeastern Invitational, and the State Meet, the team had the best girls' team in five years. Since the JV team finished fourth out of twenty-two schools at the State Meet, Coach Kyle feels there is the making of a strong team in the future.

Kevin Farley wrapped-up the season by saying, "As captain, I was pleased by the way the team held together and by our performances in the big meets in Boston."

Field hockey team goes to state championship

Making it to the State Finals was probably the highlight of the 1981 Field Hockey season, but getting there was half the fun. Senior players Terry Hopkins, Tracy Hopkins, Beth McSorley, Nancy Meehan, Debbie Robinson, and Terri Semprini left the team with only two losses (both DY) on their 1981 record.

Coach Suzanne Ericson said she knew the girls were off to a good start when, early in the season, they tied Bishop Stang 2-2, with only two seconds to go in the game.

Some of the games were memorable for their circumstances. For instance, there was the home game against Bishop Stang, where the marching band played at the half-time and the cheerleaders shouted encouragements. All the players agreed that these additions made the game special. One of the co-captains, Nancy Meehan, said with a smile, "It made us feel like somebody cared. Another unconventional game was played in New Bedford — it was raining, raining! Despite the sliding and mud — or perhaps because of it — the team had a blast." But perhaps the most important game of the season was the first round of the State Tournament. The team beat Chatham 3-2, with Nancy Meehan scoring the winning goal on a penalty stroke.

Something that will perhaps become a tradition was initiated this year. Before each home game, the players would gather at a teammate's home for breakfast. Juniors Lisa and Lori Blank, who hosted one such meal, agreed that although it meant getting up extra early, it gave the team a sense of unity and psyched them for the game. Said Lisa, "We were a team both on and off the field."

Coach finds first year "interesting"

"My first year as head coach was interesting in that I learned a lot about organizing and dealing with people," reflected Mark Titus on his season as head football coach. He added that for the most part the 1981 season was enjoyable.

The unexpected victory over Falmouth in the traditional Thanksgiving Day rivalry was singled out by Coach Titus as the highlight of the season. Senior co-captain Jim Murphy explained the pre-game feelings. "There were about forty people on Cape Cod who believed that we could win and those forty people went out and made it a success."

The numerous injuries which plagued the Red Raiders were attributed by coach and players alike to be the cause of a rather modest record. But as senior co-captain Hank Murphy commented, "We never lost sight of the type of team spirit which is shown by a winning attitude."

Coach Titus named seniors Gregg Catsoulis, Artie Rood, Hank Murphy, and Jim Murphy as the outstanding players for the 1981 season. Hank concluded, "Thanks to great coaching and a great attitude, we proved to ourselves what kind of team we really had in our last game — WE DESTROYED FALMOUTH!!"

Fall Cheerleaders Psyche Football Team All Week

The football cheerleaders for the 1981 season were under the supervision of a new coach, Deborah Henry. The cheerleaders, like any other team, put in many hours of practice to prepare for the game. The team is chosen in the spring and begins practice during the summer. This year the cheerleaders attended the New England Patriots Cheering Clinic in Foxboro to help them prepare for cheering at the football games.

In the fall, each cheerleader is assigned a football player for whom she acts as a "secret cheerleader." By anonymously giving her player a small gift (such as cake, cookies, candy) prior to each game, she helps to get him psyched for the game. At the annual football banquet, the players finally discover who their respective secret cheerleaders have been.

1981 Soccer: at its best

"The 1981 Barnstable Soccer Team with an overall record of 7-4-2 had a good season," commented Coach Wes Shrum. In the middle of the season, the Raiders lost an important game, 1-0, to arch rival Falmouth Clippers and then proceeded to fall into a slump. However, they managed to pick themselves back up and started winning again. Senior right wing Paul McCartin stated, "We had the talent and played well as a team, and with a few breaks we probably would have won our division and gone into the States."

Barnstable also lost a critical game to New Bedford in spite of their superior effort. The Soccer Team played very well against D-Y, beating them 4-1 the first game, and tying them 0-0, in the second.

"We had a group of outstanding athletes on the team, each contributing to the successful season in what is one of the toughest leagues in Southeastern Massachusetts," commented tri-capt. Andy McKenna. "I feel that my success as an individual could have never happened if it weren't for the excellent talent around me — Soctt Nickerson, Andy Stewart, Peter Dallow, John Kent, and the rest of my teammates."

Scott Nickerson and Andy Stewart, the other captains, shared Andy's feelings. "The record wasn't great, but we played well and worked hard. We weren't just teammates, but also friends, and this year we worked like a team, not just as individuals. Eleven seniors returned from last year and each one played with a lot of intensity which was what we needed to keep us going."

Coach Wes Shrum also commented, "The 1981 Soccer Team was a much more dedicated group as compared to other years. The three tri-captains Scott Nickerson, Andy McKenna, and Andy Stewart showed excellent leadership and all three made the All-Cape All-Star Team. Not only were they teammates, but they were also good friends. I enjoyed working with this bunch more than in any other year." The last game of the season was celebrated by beating the Falmouth Clippers, 1-0. The Raiders finished their season on a winning note.

A Rebuilding Year

The boys' basketball team had a discouraging season compiling a 6-13 record. Playing teams with great speed, shooting ability, and rebounding talent, the boys had their hands full. Needless-to-say, it was a rebuilding year for Coach Segura.

Even though the Red Raider's season wasn't stellar, it did not stop senior captain Dan Still from having a sensational year. Dan averaged 16 points, 12 rebounds, and 3 assists per game. According to Coach Segura, "Dan Still is the best all-around player on the Cape."

As for the three other seniors — Mike Hersey, Bill Hutchinson, and Eric Kelliher — Coach Segura praised them for the hard work and effort they put forth.

With the loss of only four seniors, Coach Segura's team's future looks hopeful. Coach Segura is pleased with the upcoming players. He feels through hard work the boys' basketball team could have some successful years to come.

Record Masks Team's Caliber

During the course of the season, the girls' basketball team played very well even though their record does not reflect the caliber of basketball they played. Of the nine teams that Barnstable played this year, five of the teams will qualify for post-season tournaments.

Barnstable opened the season playing Plymouth-Carver of the Old Colony League. Before the first period was over Barnstable's leading scorer and rebounder, Beth McSorley, was sidelined with a sprained ankle. Beth would miss the next game against Old Rochester and see limited action in the Bishop Stang game. Patty Davitt, who played very well for the entire season and the only other senior starter, did her utmost to carry the team. Against Bishop Stang, one of the top three teams in the Southeastern Conference Division 1 along with New Bedford and Wareham, the girls were overpowered by their size and speed. Barnstable played Falmouth in back-to-back games, with Falmouth winning the first and Barnstable winning the second. Their next opponent, Cohasset, had too much depth, and Barnstable experienced their fifth loss in six outcomings. Barnstable played an excellent game against Bourne and ended up losing by two in the last minute of the game. Wareham, the perennial power of the league along with New Bedford, came to Barnstable, and for the first half B.H.S. gave Wareham all they could handle. Unfortunately, Barnstable could not maintain the same intensity into the second half. Coach Brackett felt it was the best half of basketball he had seen since becoming head coach. The last two games of the first half of the season were losses, but Coach Brackett felt that his team was playing well even though their record was 1-9.

During the course of the second half of the season the girls still maintained the same enthusiasm, effort, and dedication to the basketball program. Coach Brackett feels if more girls of the same ability would show an interest in the basketball program as the girls have shown this year, that girls' basketball at Barnstable will again be highly competitive.

Team work leads to successful season

"Here come the Red Raiders!" A well known salutation to fans as the Barnstable Red Raiders Hockey Team takes to the ice at Kennedy Rink in Hyannis.

Coach Melchiono reflected on their season: "Out of the 20 or so games in the season, not more than one or two times did we go on the ice favored to win." Although they did get off to a slow start in the early games against Division I powerhouses, the team bounced back and made a run at the league title, only to fall short losing in an upset to Somerset.

They did, however, keep their tournament hopes alive longer than most expected. The leading factor which contributed largely to the team's success was the concept of team play and perseverance. This established a sense of loyalty, dedication, and sportsmanship that is teamwork, and teamwork is the key to all success.

When asked for comments, the team extended its thanks to all who have supported and helped to establish the rich hockey tradition here at Barnstable High School, especially Mr. LeBlanc and Head Coach Mr. Melchiono.

Mr. Melchiono seemed almost sad as he said, "As a coach I feel bad for the seniors, especially those who have been with the team for two or three years. It's too bad they weren't able to lead their team to the State Championship this year, after winning the title as sophomores."

A Team With Talent

"The team has a real talent and their effort shows," commented Ellen Crocker, one of the graduating gymnasts. According to the coach, Sue Graves, Barnstable has a strong team because of co-captain Bobbi Tobojka, Ellen Crocker, co-captain Anne Farley, and Wendy Norwood.

The two senior competitors are Bobbi Tobojka and Ellen Crocker. Bobbi's main event is the balance beam. Ellen is a good performer all around. "She is especially good under pressure," said Coach Graves. Ellen also got the highest all around individual score in the league meet. Anne Farley and Wendy Norwood are also strong in most events.

The team as a whole did very well this season, earning a 7-2 record. Because both losses were by two points or less, they came very close to being undefeated.

The Coach looks forward to next season even though she is losing Bobbi and Ellen. She expects Anne and Wendy to still perform well and hopes to get some new recruits from next year's upcoming freshmen.

The 1981-82 Winter Track team may have been 1-3 in the dual meets, but the runners broke numerous school and state records. Some outstanding performances were by Mark Kinney a junior, J. P. Moreland a senior, Scott Steeves a senior, and Eric "CM" Steeves a junior. These four set the state indoor track record in the shuttle hurdles on February 6, 1982, running a time of 26.7. School records are now held by Eric Steeves in the high jump with a height of 6'4¾" and hurdles with a time of 6.6. Girls' sprint medley record is held by Andrea Garrity, Jean Farley, Cheryl Corbett, and Anna Marie Connolly.

The captains of the team this season were Joe Natale, J. P. Moreland, Doreen Medeiros, and Mary Lees. They felt that they helped the team compete, kept the team as a "family" and made sure the bus driver stopped at McDonald's after a long hard meet.

During the season, underclassmen were being trained for replacement of seniors. In the hurdles and high jump Eric Steeves will replace J. P. Moreland; in distance running Dave Roberts will replace Kevin Farley; in the 300 relay Jon Morrison will replace Joe Natale; and in the 600 relay Steve Thys will replace Tom Pingree.

Coach Kyle commented on the last league meet which was held at New Bedford Voke. "The 'class' displayed by the girls' and boys' teams at the league meet when I couldn't coach them because I was a meet director, really showed me that they were top-notch athletes." At that meet, the boys' team placed second and the girls' team finished fifth.

Cheerleaders Get Ready for Cheering Competition

Under the supervision of a new coach Deborah Henry, the 1981-82 winter cheerleaders elected Kelli Murphy and Christine Gill as co-captains. Cheering only for the basketball team, the cheerleaders do not have "secret players" as the football cheerleaders do. However, the girls enthusiastically support the team from the bench and cheer on the court during time-outs and quarter breaks.

In addition to cheering at games, the girls also work toward a competiton in the spring. Last year's team placed first and the 1981-82 team is preparing to do the same.

Barnstable has a wide spectrum of clubs and activities to cater to everyone's interests. Some offer competition, such as the speech team. Others involve the community such as Key and Code Clubs. Some challenge the individual, such as Drama. All bring out and develop each person's special characteristics and open a door to social life by bringing kids with common interests together.

Many students arrive at their first club meeting as freshmen nobody knows and leave as seniors that many will miss.

Art Club

The Art Club is composed of a group of students interested in doing art work outside of the classroom. The club's activities this year have included painting murals for downtown Hyannis, decorating windows for Whitehall Nursing Home, and holding bake sales. Future plans are to paint some classrooms and to take a trip to New York.

Key Club

Key Club International is a service organization for high school students, sponsored by Kiwanis International. Its aim is to develop initiative, leadership, and good citizenship practices in youth, while providing service to the school and community.

Barnstable's Key Club has been highly successful in sponsoring the Junior Miss Program for a number of years. Key Club also runs the concession stand at home football games to finance community service projects, and holds a variety of club social activities throughout the year.

Front: K. Bearse, J. Barth, C. Burke, Adviser Ms. O'Brien. Back: P. Sullivan, J. McGranachan.

Code Club

Code Club is a community service organization which assists the elderly, sick, disabled, and underprivileged.

National Honor Society

The National Honor Society accepts students on the basis of their leadership, scholarship, service to the community, and character. At the end of their junior year, students with a grade point average of 3.30 or higher are selected to fill out an application. Those students chosen for NHS membership are inducted in the spring. This year, a number of NHS members went to the Cape Cod Hospital before Christmas to sing carols in the halls, and the Society has organized a Festival of Pride, in which clubs and other activity groups demonstrate their talents to the outside community. Finally, the National Honor Society this year, as always, has raised money for the John Kilcoyn scholarship given to a senior selected for scholarship and need.

Photography Club

The Photography Club offers staff and students a chance to talk with each other about photography, to share pictures, and to participate in acitvities related to photography. The members enter photo contests, and they have gone on one field trip to Stage Harbor in Chatham to photograph the ice floes. Planned for the year are a photography show in the Festival of Pride night that the National Honor Society is organizing and a mini-course in darkroom procedures.

Science Club

The Science Club is new to Barnstable High School this year, and is just getting off the ground. This year the club has elected Joe Marshall as president, Andy Ryder as vice-president, and Melinda Frazel as treasurer. Most of the club's meetings are spent discussing topics of interest in the field of science, such as computer technology. Because the club is just starting, only one field trip has been tentatively planned, but if it is successful many more will be included in the club's activities.

McGillen, M. Gula.

Ski Club

The Ski Club introduces students to skiing, allows those whose parents do not ski to participate, and also serves the needs of the more experienced skiers. This year, from one hundred twenty to one hundred thirty students are members of the club, and a good season is anticipated. At least six day trips to New Hampshire and Vermont are planned. In the past, the club has also taken seven trips to Europe: two to Innsbruck, Austria, and five to Charmonix, France; however, no overseas trip is planned for 1982.

SCHOOL STORE

The School Store gives students a chance to use everyday business practices. Mrs. Johnson, the store advisor, and the store personnel run the store and maintain a pleasant atmosphere. The Trading Post sells a variety of items ranging from cough drops to notebooks, sweatshirts, and, of course, its biggest sellers, pens and pencils.

Kneeling: John Bearse, Dawn Koch, and Richard Sargent. Standing: Julia Hutchinson, Michele Harvey, Kelly Conway, Greg LaRoche, Mrs. Janet Johnson, Alberta Glover, Denise Martino, Wayne Kropa, and Kristen Fraser. Other store employees (not shown) are John Lopes, Spencer Hallett, Sue DiCarlo and Jennifer Barth.

IMANI CLUB

The Imani Club is a group dedicated to the interests of minority people in the school and in the community. It provides a variety of cultural experiences, work projects, and fund-raising activities for its members.

Top: Tanya Barboza, Sharon SAlters, Bruce Barboza, Alberta Glover, Brian Donalson, Sharon Kendall, Mr. John Reed, Adviser. Bottom: Doreen Monterio, Kim Canto, Michelle Deluz, Wanda Salters, Lee Emmanuel, Buster Donalson.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Barnstable High School Student Council's main purpose is to keep communication open between the student body and the administration. Also, it protects and defends the rights of the students. Student Council is not a fund raising organization; rather it volunteers its services to the community for various projects and functions. The Student Council does, however, keep information on types of fund-raising events for other school and community organizations. The Council runs elections and stays in touch with the student body through a suggestion box, a column in the newspaper, bulletin notices, and talking directly with the students.

STUDENT ADVISORY COUNCIL

Student Advisory Council is a link between the School Committee and the student body. SAC meets regularly with Mr. Graves and Superintendent Tynan and tries to represent to the School Committee a cross-section of the entire student body, as well as the attitudes, interests, and concerns of the students.

Standing: Judy Clancy, Doug Yakola (Chairman), Petra Beis, Cyndi Eagar. Sitting: Mary Lees, Mr. Richard Graves, adviser.

Speech

Heidi Ames, Cathy O'Neil, and Peter Money, captains of the Barnstable High School speech team, agree that the group had a very successful year. Combined efforts and hard work placed the team among the top three in the state.

Coaches Nancy Lahteine, Anne Queeney, and Bill Crocker feel that the wide range of categories, poetry, radio, play reading, and dramatic interpretation to name a few have helped to increase interest in the speech team.

Highlighting the year was the January tournament, the first hosted by BHS in several years, and the state tournament, in which many of our students participated.

Future Problem Solving

The future problem solving team is a group of students who are interested in learning and using problem solving techniques, including brainstorming, definition of the problem, finding solutions, and putting them to work.

Once a week the group meets and attacks a problem in today's society, such as child abuse or drug abuse. The informal meetings allow students to be creative and develop their reasoning abilities.

The year climaxes in the spring when Ms. Weiss chooses four team members to attend the national competition.

Insight was once again awarded with prestigous commendation from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association in its judging of high school papers across the country. The editors and reporters managed to keep readers abreast of school news through incisive news reporting and amusing features. As the newspaper's budget is deleted from the school committee's allocations, next year Insight will be forced to look to the community for support to maintain the Barnstable High School publication.

BHS Marching Band

The pride of Cape Cod

The Barnstable High School Marching Band, "The Pride of Cape Cod," entrances its audience whenever and wherever it performs.

The band consists of 76 members including the drill team. Because of their size, they are considered a Class A band. This designation is used when the band competes in competitions.

This season, the band hosted its own Fourth Annual Cape Cod band Festival. They competed in other competitions at New Bedford High School, Dennis-Yarmouth High School, and Billerica High School. The band also competed in the Falmouth Christmas Parade and placed first for the second year in a row.

Mr. E. Bradford Mutzenard is the advisor and organizer of the band. He writes all their shows, selects all their music, and is their teacher in marching and playing techniques. During their shows, however, one finds Drum Major AnnaMarie Connolly in charge. Assisting her are student directors, Shelley Hall and Lee Hicks.

The band began to get organized with a week of summer vacation left. They held their own "Band Camp." There were nine 2-hour sessions, three each day. The members were required to attend six of these sessions and all were required to attend the final session. "It was a time to review all the picky things like marking time and marching. By the time school started, we already had a jump on things," reflects AnnaMarie.

But the major obligation of the band is the job of psyching up the Red Raiders Football Team. They carry out this duty with the cheerleaders. The band would play "Rocky" and the cheerleaders would do a routine they had worked on. When the cheerleaders did their cheering, the band would respond.

The funds the band needed to travel to competitions and parades were raised by the Band Boosters: A group of band parents who held bake sales, and sold buttons to support their children.

One member remarks, "I think the biggest thing was that we had audience appeal. It was a fun show to watch." This shows everytime the smiles appear on the faces of those watching the "Pride of Cape Cod" perform.

Students Take Note of Music Department

The music department like other departments at BHS had to "tighten-up" its budget. It did so by reducing the number of music classes from six to five. Now offered to the approximately 75 students who participate in the music program are chamber strings, chorale, chorus, concert band, and orchestra.

These various organizations display their polished musical expertise in a number of presentations throughout the year. One such annual event is the Pops Concert, an evening which incorporates chamber strings, chorale, chorus, and the concert band and orchestra in a professional work of showmanship. In addition to the Pops Concert, the music department sponsors similar public presentations throughout the year.

ORCHESTRA

While some students are busy solving geometric proofs and others are attacking Shakespeare during third period, members of the BHS orchestra are practicing diligently under the direction of Mr. Brad Mutzenard. The tri-weekly rehearsals pay off in stylish concert performances three times each year in the fall, winter, and spring. The programs include everything from pop to folk, blues to ballads, and rock to soul and are always done in the true style of music — well.

CONCERT BAND

Concert band remains on the music department's Hit Parade as one of the more popular classes. At the conclusion of the fall marching band, most of the band members turn in their red and white boots for a chance to play in the concert band for the remainder of the year. Like the marching band, the concert band practices each day during first period. Their hard work shines through in various concert performances throughout the school year.

CHAMBER STRINGS

Under the masterful direction of Mrs. Gerri Lajoie, chamber string students look ahead to possible futures in the music industry. The sounds of violins, violas, and cellos practicing in September soften into sweet examples of melodic harmony. These pleasing sounds can be heard in performances presented throughout the year.

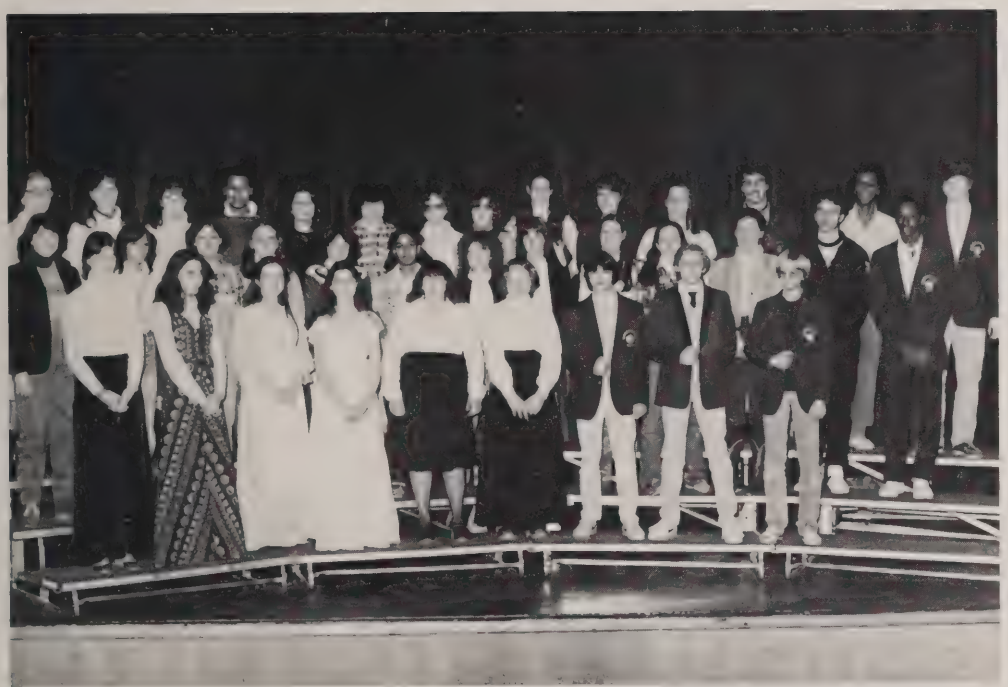
CHORALE

The more elite singers of the chorus choose to further their voice training by auditioning for the BHS chorale. These auditions are held in the fall by Mr. Carl Swanson. Members of the chorale perform at the same events as the chorus. Rob Lamb accompanies the choral group on the piano.



Front: E. Kehoe, B. McGarry, M. Harvey, P. Money, W. Kropa, and H. Barbour. 2nd row: J. Stockwell, C. Davis, M. McHenry, E. McGann, S. Sheehan, K. Watters, M. Zopka, and W. CHORUS

Hallways are not only filled with melodic sounds of instruments playing, but also with harmonic voices singing out. These voices belong to the members of the BHS chorus. Under the direction of Mr. Carl Swanson, the chorus performs several times during the school year. The chorus is accompanied on the piano by Mrs. C. Murphy.

Middle Earth Fantasy Comes to Barnstable

The Hobbit was the first large-scale production the drama department attempted since John Sullivan became director. The cast included more than 100 students, portraying all kinds of Middle Earth characters.

Bilbo Baggins, the hobbit hero, was played by Graham Spargo, an exchange student from New Zealand. Freshman Mike Matthewson also shared the role.

Mr. Baggins accompanied the thirteen mighty dwarves and their leader Thorin, played by Jim Hill and Peter Crosby, on a fantastic journey to slay the mechanical reptilian wonder Smaug (replete with flashing eyes, smoky breath, and scaley skin thanks to his creators Mr. Vincent Puleo and Mr. John Sullivan).

Under the omnificent guidance of the wizard Gandalf, played by Barry Sturgis and David Geick, the party encountered spider creatures, three corpulent trolls, and a band of elves and their queen. Bilbo outsmarted the lisping creature Gollum and the entire band was ambushed by hostile goblins. Finally, after many trials, they located Smaug's cave.

Bilbo slew the dragon and the dwarves were revelling over their treaures when the trolls attacked them again. Aided by the elves and others, the troops defeated the goblins.

At last, Bilbo returned home, happy with his share of the wealth. Reflecting on his adventures, Bilbo concluded the show by singing to his friends "Roads go ever on, but it is good to be home."

The audiences were astonished, not only by the size of the cast, but also by the true-to-Tolkien creation of the dragon and the sets.

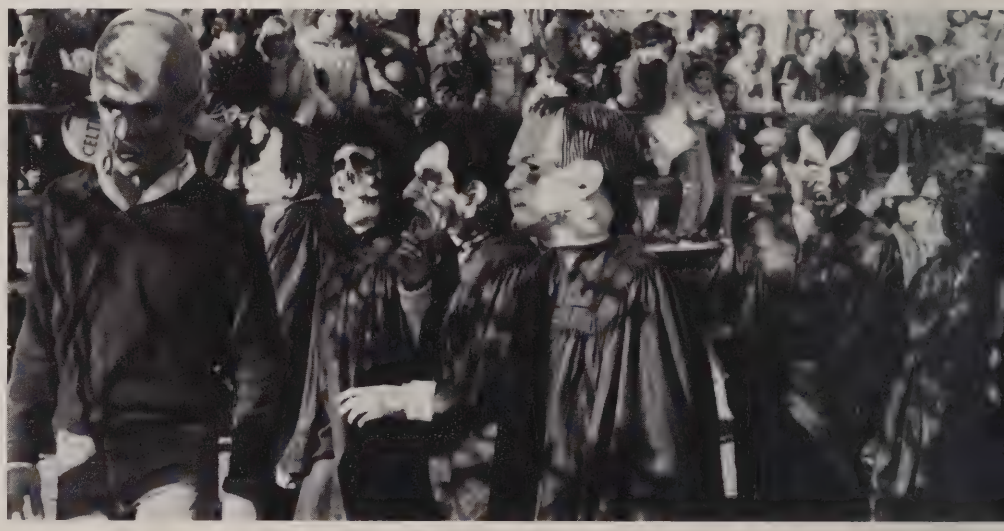
When John Sullivan, Drama Club advisor, first told club members that this year's Haunted House would be held in the school auditorium, the response was less than ecstatic. Most of the kids were disappointed; how could the auditorium — scene of town meetings and Junior Miss — be transformed into a chamber of horrors? As it turned out, the transformation was convincing enough to gross $4,000, the biggest profit made on such a Halloween presentation at BHS.

It began with stringing up sheets along the aisles to form narrow corridors through which well trained ghouls led their parties. Stage books and huge painted drops effectively half hid goblin lair from alien operating table and Dracula from Frankenstien's Laboratory. The trail wound through a graveyard resting on risers and a spidery tunnel suspended from lighting rods. Gollum's cave reappeared at the bend, inhabited by another slimy creature and the Mummy's tomb led to the hut of an energetic witch doctor who shouted curses and killed the ghoul by attacking its hand-held effigy.

The backup ghoul quickly ushered the group out of the building, without their ever suspecting the auditorium lay beneath the horrible facade.



The drama club had its biggest membership ever this year. Club officers were: President Neil McGarry, Vice-president Elaine Belsito, Treasurer Betty Anderson, and Secretaries Stan Hodkinson and Cathy O'Neil.

The Drama Club is responsible for several productions each year, including the Haunted House, fall play, spring play, a talent show, and usually a competition play. This year some members also worked on a children's workshop show.

The Drama Club also usually enters a float in the Homecoming Parade. The 1980 float won first prize, but the 1981 float, although an impressive sight with 200 helium balloons accompanying it, could not live up to its predecessor.

The 1981 competition play was The Sunshine Boys. The cast consisted of Neil McGarry, Bill Evans, who are seniors this year, and Nancy Mascio, who graduated last year. They won first alternate at the district competition held annually in Sandwich.

A Classic Graces the Barnstable Stage

A classic lit the Barnstable Stage this past December as the tormented old miser, Scrooge, realized the error of his ways before both matinee and evening audiences.

While the story was an old one, this show probably incorporated more new concepts than any performed here during John Sullivan's tenure as drama director. For starters, the show was an original adaption done by Sullivan. This fact conveniently obliterated any royalties, leaving extra monies to be put toward the rented/bought tuxedos, top hats, and gowns that populated the production. As opposed to having a small pit orchestra, the opening overture was recorded and tumbled out to a dizzying blizzard of light flecks that spilled from two revolving glass balls suspended from the ceiling. Jacob Marley literally flew into a rage after much practice with a flying harness bought for the show. Pyrotechnical flashes accompanied the appearance of the silent Ghost of Christmas Past, smoke filtered across the stage as Scrooge slipped into his grave, and snow flurries chilled the stage during outside scenes. The crowning glory of the show was the fourteen-foot-high sets which twisted and turned into various combinations that hosted a spectrum of characters.

Most amazing of all the features of the play, however, was the fact that all the special effects and tremendous scenery, as well as the top notch acting, were created by students, under the guidance of several dedicated adults.

Barnacle 1982 Is Proof of Staff's Hard Work

Producing a yearbook is not as easy as it may seem to the uninformed or uninvolved bystander. Work on the 1982 Barnacle began in April, 1981, when Miss Buhler, the adviser, interviewed students who were interested in being on the yearbook staff. Once the 22 staff members were chosen, they interviewed photographers and Hawkins/Howard Studio was chosen to be the yearbook photographer. Then a contract was signed with Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas to publish the book. Over the summer, the staff continued their work by soliciting advertisements from businesses around the Cape. Due to their outstanding efforts $6,500 was raised which went toward meeting a $12,000 publishing bill and reducing individual book costs to $15.

When school resumed in the fall, the staff chose the yearbook theme "Tightening Up" which was appropriate because of budget reductions due to Proposition 2½, the trend towards physical fitness, and the senior class's strong unity. In keeping with this theme, Sue Stacy designed the 1982 yearbook cover.

Next, each two-page spread was assigned to one or two students who were then responsible for writing the copy and organizing the photographs for those pages. A few students took many candid and action photographs for the yearbook, and six staff members designed, coordinated, and produced the annual senior slide show in November.

Deadlines were never eagerly anticipated. Somehow, the pictures didn't fit, the copy was impossible to compose, and captions and inspiration never seemed to coincide. In addition to working during Period 1 each day first semester, staff members found it necessary to work during free periods, after school, at night, on weekends, and during vacations to complete their work.

Local businesses are often called upon during the year to assist school clubs and activities. They donate money, subscribe to publications, and purchase ads to help defray the escalating costs of functions such as Insight the school newspaper, Junior Miss, stage productions, awards banquets, and of course, the yearbook. Businessmen offer their assistance in other ways, too. They help transport students, offer tours of their offices or factories, or provide much needed assistance to coaches and advisers. For example, this past year a WQRC broadcaster made the music tape for the yearbook staff's senior slide show. Local businessmen who are amateur photographers took pictures for the yearbook; other professionals — in art, advertising and law — gave constructive criticism, advice, and counsel free of charge.

The yearbook staff and the Class of 1982 are greatly indebted to all the patrons, businesses, professionals, and friends whose generous contributions made publication of the 1982 Barnacle possible.

Baxter's, on Lewis Bay, is exceptionally crowded the weekend of the annual Hyannis-to-Nantucket Figawi race.

From punk to disco, Frank Sinatra to Foreigner, Beethoven to Blondie, the Musicsmith is a record-collector's paradise.

Bestsellers, magazines, and calendars are displayed for leisurely browsing at Paperback Booksmith.

Ringing up sales is only one way Sue Morse helps customers at J. R. Holiday's in the Mall.

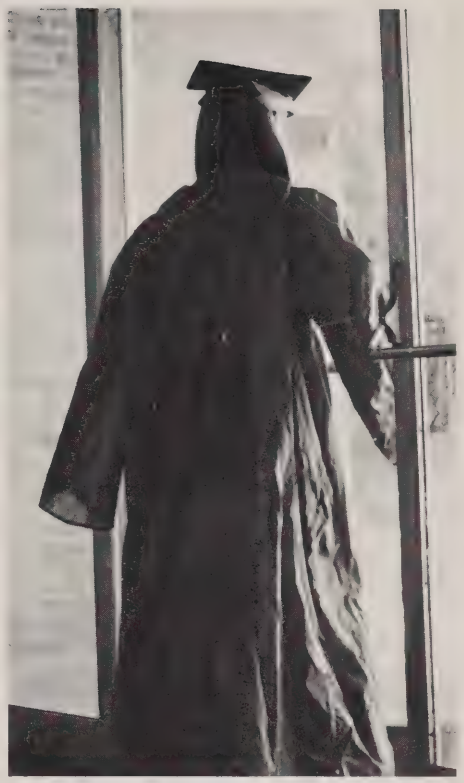
We are there for the moments of your life.

Below: The name of this Barnstable boat reflects seniors' aspirations for the future.
Right: Debbie Robinson prepares to leave Barnstable HIgh.
Bottom: Our fondest memories of BHS will be the "good times" had by all in the 800 wing, our home for four years.



The mood among seniors was one of anticipation as we approached the long waited end of high school and the many festivities to mark the occasion. Senior week allowed us to put down the books and simply enjoy our remaining moments of high school. But when the time arrived, we became aware of the finality which is associated with graduation. There will be no next year in the sense of being together as a group. One phase of our lives is ending while another, more challenging one, is just beginning.

We must look ahead to a promising future and reflect back on fond memories of "the good times." For some the coming fall signifies the beginning of a college education while for others it means entering the business world. We will all embark on a new journey with new horizons and another path to travel.

Above left: We will all certainly miss talking in the cafeteria with our friends, one of the more social aspects of school, as Missy Gilmartin does here.
